Dean Hofland encourages youth to consider the military.

Hofland recalls military service

by Sue Sitter

Dean Hofland, Harvey, has this advice for young people planning their future after high school: Consider serving in the military.

"If they're looking for a job, an opportunity, there's very good training for jobs," Hofland said.

He reflected on his time as an Army drill instructor recently as he relaxed in his recliner in his room at St. Aloisius Long Term Care Center.

Hofland told the Herald-Press he served during the Korean conflict, but remained stateside at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri.

"I taught (the recruits) how to march," he said.

Hofland added several men from North Dakota served in his unit, and some went overseas for combat duty.

"There were some North Dakota boys in my unit. I knew some who served in the Korean conflict. Kept in contact with them. I lost contact with a few, but they still remember me. Just the other day, one guy who served with us came to visit," he said.

Hofland was born on a farm near the southwestern North Dakota town of Reeder. He grew up in Reeder after his father passed away when Hofland was a child.

After his military service, Hofland said he settled with his wife, Ida, and made a life for his family in Harvey.

"My daughter was born in Harvey," he said.

Hofland's daughter, Joan Tofte-land, now lives in Fargo. Hofland said he has three grandchildren, as well.

"I'm proud of them," he said. Ida passed away in 2009.

Hofland said he likes to spend time reminiscing about happy events with family, and he will always remember his time as a Master Sergeant in the Army.

"I'm proud of that, for sure," he said.

Another Eagle Scout in the Friedt family

by Kathy Kennedy

Boy Scout Troop #534 of Harvey has a new Eagle Scout. Brian Friedt, 15, and son of Mark and Dawn Friedt, Harvey, officially received this rank at his Court of Honor ceremony Sunday, Oct. 23.

This event was held at Faith Lutheran Church. Brian's brother, Kevin, who is also an Eagle Scout, served as Master of Ceremony.

With many family members and friends present, Brian gave a speech on scouting and his journey in the Boy Scouts of America organization. His proud parents were given the honor of presenting him with the Eagle pin and his grandfather, Bill J. Friedt, presented the Mentor's pin. Matthew English, also an Eagle Scout, read the Eagle Charge.

The Court of Honor and receiving the rank of Eagle Scout was the culmination of Friedt's hard work through the years and the completion of his service project.

A Scout is required to earn 21 Merit Badges before he can become an Eagle Scout. Brian achieved 37 Merit Badges with Shotgun and Wilderness Survival being his favorite ones. Another Merit Badge he enjoyed working on was cooking, as that was completed with other troop members.

He admitted that Personal Management for which he had to keep track of all money, assets and expenses for 90 days was not one of his favorites. Personal Fitness was a challenge as he kept track of all physical activities for a 12-week period.

His community project

Brian's community service project that was required to move to Eagle rank involved replacing the signs for the Harvey Boosters Club that were along the highway west of Harvey. From March 4 when he met with the Harvey Boosters to the signs' installation on June 14, Friedt dedicated 66 hours to the project. The Harvey Boosters Club and the Fraternal Order of Eagles were sponsors of the sign renovation.

Brian met with Collette Hertz, a member of the Boosters Club, and Keith Reinowski of Midwest Graphics and Signs to design the new signage. Brian kept a little gold in the signs reminiscent of the Harvey Hornets' purple and gold school colors. Another decision made was to keep one Harvey Championship sign near the highway by Westside Park but to move the one near Warehouse Grocery to the parking lot at the high school. The HWC billboard at the high school was replaced with the new one after permission was received from Daniel Deck who had made the existing one for his Eagle Scout project several years ago.

Usually other scouts help the potential Eagle Scout with his project. Since this one didn't require as much manual labor as others, Friedt recruited the aid of his brothers, Kevin and Nathan, along with Reinowski's expertise and assistance. Friedt's father helped and served as his project coach. The goal was to have the new Harvey championship signs up before the All-School Reunion in July. The goal was met.

Once the physical work for the project of replacing signs was completed, Friedt set out to finish his paperwork. Under the guidance of his dad, who serves as committee chair for the Harvey Boy Scouts, and the assistance of Scout Master Mark Knudtson and his wife, Julie, Friedt got his resume' and records in order and was prepared to meet with the Board of Review in Minot Sept. 12.

During his review, he was required to recite the Scout Oath and Scout Law. He answered questions about his community project and questions about scouting, his future plans, what being an Eagle Scout meant to him, etc. Once finished, he and his family left the room to be called in a short time later when they were given the good news that he had met all requirements and he was bestowed the rank of Eagle Scout.

Now that the project is finished and the Eagle Scout rank has been achieved, Brian plans to remain involved in all aspects of scouting and to work on earning Eagle Palms, which are equal to five Merit Badges.

Brian Friedt plans to earn another form of Boy Scout merit badges, the Eagle Palms.

Gail Grondahl, Maddock, accepted the Patriot Award from Dave Chicos of the North Dakota National Guard in Rugby.

Grondahl was nominated by John Gallagher, who is a Certified Nursing Assistant at St. Aloisius Long Term Care in Harvey.

In his nomination, Gallagher stated that Grondahl is always quick and courteous when he needs to work on scheduling.

"They support myself and the North Dakota Army National Guard by being a flexible and understanding employee."

The Patriot Award is one of several employer awards. It is intended specifically for the recognition of individual supervisors. Employers receive a Patriot Award certificate and accompanying lapel pin.

Erdmann celebrates 104 years

by Sue Sitter

Friends and family gathered in Harvey to help Norma Erdmann celebrate a very special day. Erdmann marked her 104th birthday with cake, balloons and a lunch Nov. 6, according to her daughter, Karen Konschak.

Erdmann was born Nov. 6, 1912, on her family's farm seven miles south of Drake.

"Two days after her birthday, we told her there was another presidential election and the president-elect was Donald Trump," said Konschak.

"And then, we asked her, 'Who was our first president?' Konschak continued.

"And she said, 'George Washington'. After the election, we said to each other, 'How many does she know?' And we were amazed at how many she could recall," Konschak added.

Erdmann entertained residents the day before with a rendition of the Star-Spangled Banner.

"She remembered the words," Konschak said.

Erdmann and Konschak said her long life was marked with joy and heartache, and Erdmann and her family overcame many challenges with hard work.

Erdmann attended schools in the Drake area, and studied at Drake and Anamoose High Schools, before graduating from Anamoose High.

"She was the only one from her family that graduated from high school," said Konschak.

Erdmann stayed with one of her four sisters while attending school in Anamoose. She had two brothers, one of whom was her twin.

"Norman Kaibel was her twin, and her sidekick," Konschak said.

Erdmann recalled an incident in her childhood when she and Norman were herding cattle, and a severe summer storm came up suddenly.

"Uncle Norman held her tight, and said, 'Well, if one of us goes, we're both going to go.' They were so much alike that he never wanted something to happen to one or other," said Konschak.

"He was good," Erdmann said of her brother, who passed away several years ago.

Norma married Theodore Mertz in 1934, and the couple farmed in the Goodrich area.

Erdmann recalls challenges in the decade known as the "Dirty Thirties" because of the dust storms that plagued the Central Plains.

"They milked cows and they worked hard. They made it work," Konschak said of her parents.

Norma Theodore welcomed eight children into their family. Theodore passed away unexpectedly at age 47, and oldest son, Terry, came home from college to help manage the farm, Konschak said.

"In 1959, we all moved to a little house in Goodrich, and she ran for treasurer for Sheridan County," Konschak continued.

"But, she didn't get the job, so she took a job at the school, and she cooked for the school for 17 or 18 years, and served almost 235, 250 kids every day for lunch," she noted, adding some former Goodrich pupils sent cards to Erdmann on her 100th birthday.

Erdmann stayed involved in all her children's education, Konschak said.

"When we were in school, Mom hoped we'd have trouble with algebra, so she could show us how to do it," Karen smiled.

Norma married Archie Erdmann in 1976. Archie passed away when Norma was 96.

Norman Erdmann with a celebratory cake and surrounded by family members.

Erdmann moved to an assisted living facility in Sheridan County, and eventually moved to Harvey to be close to Karen.

"She was in her late nineties, and she'd walk around in her spiked high heels. Mother always cared about her appearance."

Erdmann also enjoyed entertaining friends with supper and pinochle games late into the night, Konschak said.

"Her oldest son, my brother, is 82. Not too many can say they have their 82-year-old son visit them," Konschak noted.

"Family's always been important to her, and she's the glue that holds us together," Konschak said.

Archaic Electoral College still electing presidents

U. S. Rep. Nancy Pelosi (D-CA) has introduced a resolution calling for replacement of the Electoral College with a direct popular vote.

Since Hilliary Clinton won the popular vote and lost in the Electoral College, the resolution looks more like sour grapes than serious reform. It has politicized discussion of the question.

The Electoral College has been under siege from the very beginning. In fact, it was a committee compromise to end the last contentious fight in the Constitutional Convention.

Several other options had been considered and dismissed, including election by Congress, by state legislatures, and by popular vote. The election of multiple executives was even considered. So let's not pretend that the Electoral College resulted from an objective search for the best voting system.

Partisan arguments aside, it was inevitable that we eventually would get to the undemocratic nature of the Electoral College. After all, we have seen a 200-year drift toward democratization of our political institutions.

We started with a popular vote for the electors in the early 1800s, then went to direct election of U. S. Senators. Next, the Supreme Court forced recalcitrant state legislatures to apply a strict 1-person, 1-vote principle to the creation of legislative districts.

It is true that the Electoral College is undemocratic but it gets that characteristic from including senators in the formula for allocating electors. If we abolished the Electoral College, we would be hard pressed to justify continuance of the U. S. Senate.

Another undemocratic feature of the Electoral College is that it gives states their assigned electoral votes regardless of turnout. Minnesota produces over 300,000 votes per elector while Alabama produces only 200,000.

The Electoral College is vulnerable to exploitation by minorities. Third party single-issue candidates can skim off enough voters to throw an election. Ralph Nader did this in 2000.

Then there is the George Wallace option. Riding the wave of regional bigotry in 1968, he carried five states and won 46 electoral votes. In a close election, this could be enough to bargain with the two major parties for his votes.

If Donald Trump had lost, his followers were so loyal that he could win 3-way races in 2020 as an independent, collect a significant number of electors, and become broker-in-chief. I suspect he had that in mind when it looked like he would lose.

Several defenses of the Electoral Colleges have been anemic.

First off, campaigns would not gravitate as claimed to the two coasts at the expense of the heartland. The political strategist's bible advises candidates to campaign where they already have strong support.

Then there is the concern over recounts. Even in a nationwide popular vote, elections would be conducted in precincts just as they are now. If the number of voters didn't match the number of votes, the problem would be discovered and corrected at the precinct level.

Fall Mule Deer Survey

One positive note on which to end this week's column, the Game and Fish fall mule deer survey indicates that mule deer had another good year of fawn production.

The buck-to-doe ratio of 0.48 (0.42 in 2015) is higher than the long-term average of 0.43 bucks per doe, while the fawn-to-doe ratio of 0.90 (0.84 in 2015) is the same as the long-term average.

Game and Fish big game management supervisor Bruce Stillings said the mule deer population continues to recover nicely following the devastating winters of 2009-11, with a third consecutive year of fawn production near or above the long-term average.

"This year's good fawn production has the potential to result in a nice population increase next spring, depending on the severity of the winter," Stillings said.

The fall aerial survey, conducted specifically to study demographics, covers 24 study areas and 306.3 square miles in western North Dakota.

Attend a Game and Fish Dept. advisory meeting

Several decades ago, the state legislature created an advisory board for the North Dakota Game and Fish Department. One of the results of that is that each fall and spring, advisory board members host public meetings in their district.

These public meetings provide citizens with an opportunity to discuss fish and wildlife issues and ask questions of Game and Fish personnel.

Game and Fish has always been an open public agency, with staff and administrators willing to address public comments and input via phone calls, letters, emails, texts and walk-in or on-the-street visits. The advisory meetings give hunters, anglers and landowners a chance to meet with their district advisors and agency personnel in person, in locations that are typically closer than driving to Bismarck or one of the Game and Fish district offices.

The governor appoints each of the eight Game and Fish advisors, and they representing a multi-county section of the state. In addition to hosting meetings twice a year, they also serve as a liaison between the Department and public.

Here's a listing of the meetings coming up in the next few weeks, to see if there's one in your area.

Two basketball games promise to furnish some hilarious moments when the high school girls take on the old bags team and the men of the north face the south in hoop competition. Half time will feature a pie social.

Patricia Lenz, Fessenden, is one of 15 seniors who have been initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, top ranking national scholarship honorary society of North Dakota State University. Miss Lenz is majoring in psychology at NDSU and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lenz, Fessenden.

Johnson Drug, the Gambles Store, and Clappers, Inc., all invite shoppers to see all the new toys and games and products that make wonderful Christmas gifts. The shops are located on Main Street in Fessenden.

Make good use of leftover food

We were eating potato and ham soup made from the leftover ham and mashed potatoes I had made the previous night.

The next evening, my husband was on cooking duty. His casserole's aroma was familiar. You guessed it - it was made with ham, potatoes, and cheese.

"We still have some ham left," he smiled.

We need to figure out how to cook for a smaller family. Our household dropped from five to three as our older children moved to a dorm. We are buying and preparing too much food.

With the holidays, you might have leftover turkey, ham or roast beef. Freezing in recipe-size amounts is always a good plan, especially if you cannot use the food within four days.

Unfortunately, the word "leftovers" often has a bad connotation. Think of your extra food as "planned-over" that you can use in a new way.

However, if you forget your planned-over in the refrigerator, the food might end up getting tossed when discovered.

Worldwide, about one-third of food is lost or wasted through losses in the production system and at consumer's point - about $1 trillion in wasted food worldwide. On average, about 20 pounds of food per person per month is wasted by people in the U.S.

Especially around the holidays, we may become "quantity cooks" when we have relatives and friends over to enjoy meals. We may have planned-over foods as a result. Let's not waste it.

Keep food safety in mind with extra food. Improper temperature is the worst enemy of perishable food, so cool foods quickly by dividing large amounts of leftovers into small, shallow containers. Slice meat into smaller pieces. Thick foods, such as stew, should be no more than 2 inches deep in a shallow container.

Freeze planned-over in recipe-sized portions. Label with the date and type of food.

Use refrigerated planned-over foods within three to four days. Reheat gravy and meat to 165 degrees Fahrenheit.

Instead of letting planned-over food go to waste, be creative. Consider these ideas: make soup, casseroles, quesadillas, white chili, stir-fry or enchiladas.; shred, add mayonnaise and chopped celery for sandwich spread; add salsa for chicken tacos; Simmer with barbecue sauce for sandwiches.

Use leftover turkey or chicken in this soup.

If you happen to have any leftover roasted turkey, here's a tasty way to enjoy it.

Slow Cooker Chicken or Turkey Tortilla Soup

1 pound chicken or turkey breast, boneless and skinless (or 3 c. chopped roasted turkey)
1 (16-ounce) jar salsa
3 c. chicken broth, reduced-sodium

2 Tbsp. "Mexican blend" seasoning or low-sodium taco seasoning (see recipe provided)

1 (15-oz) can kidney beans, drained and rinsed

1 (15-oz) can black beans, drained and rinsed

1 (16-oz) package frozen corn
Optional toppings- cheese, plain yogurt, tortilla chips

Place chicken in slow cooker. Top with remaining ingredients. Cook on low 6-7 hours or high 4 hours. Remove chicken, shred and return to slow cooker. Makes 10 servings. 1-cup serving has 210 calories, 2.5 g fat, 19 g protein, 30 g carbohydrate, 8 g fiber and 530 milligrams sodium.

Mexican Blend: yields 3 Tbsp. plus 1/2 tsp.

1 1/2 tsp. dried parsley
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
1/2 tsp. onion powder
1 tsp. dried oregano
1 tsp. black pepper
1 Tbsp. chili powder
1 tsp. paprika
1 1/2 tsp. cumin
Mix. Store in air-tight container or zip bag. Use in recipe provided or add to cooked chicken or ground beef for tacos.

A real Christmas tree: The natural choice

Each holiday season shoppers find themselves confronted with a difficult choice: celebrate with a real tree or an artificial tree. A good choice has always been the natural choice . . . a real Christmas tree.

Real Christmas trees are a benefit to the environment from the time they are planted until after the holiday season. While they're growing, real Christmas trees support life by absorbing carbon dioxide and giving off fresh oxygen. The farms that grow Christmas trees stabilize soil, protect and clean water supplies and provide habitat for wildlife while creating some beautiful green scenery. Often Christmas trees are grown on soil that doesn't support other crops. Real trees can be reused and recycled after the holidays. Check with your local department of public works for information.

Artificial trees are a petroleum-based product that consumes energy resources during fabrication. A burden to the environment, artificial trees aren't biodegradable and will remain in landfills for years after disposal. The average life span of an artificial tree is only six years.

The practice of using a real tree to celebrate the holidays is a natural choice. You can be sure it's fresh if the needles are green and flexible and don't come off readily when you pull the branches through your fingers or bounce the tree on the ground. A visit to a local "retail lot" or "choose and cut" tree farm will ensure the freshest tree possible.

To keep it fresh, store your tree in a cool, shaded place after purchase until you are ready to bring it indoors. Cut at least one inch off the base before putting it in water, and keep the tree stand container full of water until you discard the tree. Real trees also provide something that artificial trees can't . . . a holiday fragrance and feeling.

For more information on real Christmas trees, contact: Bob Harsel, North Dakota Forest Service, at (701) 683-4323.

Michael Hovey

Michael Anthony Hovey, 67, Bismarck and rural Fessenden, died Monday, Nov. 21, 2016, surrounded by family and friends after a 13-year battle with pancreatic cancer, at CHI St. Alexius Health, Bismarck.

A memorial service was held Friday, Nov. 25, at Church of the Ascension, Bismarck, with Rev. Marvin Klemmer officiating. Burial was held at St. Mary's Cemetery, Bismarck.

Family greeted visitors Wednesday, Nov. 23, at Eastgate Funeral Service, Bismarck, with a vigil service.

Mike was born March 24, 1949, in Minot, to Orval and Solvig (Rue) Hovey. He was raised in Parshall and New Town and graduated from New Town High School. He later graduated from Minot State University, majoring in English.

Mike married Rose-Anne Corey November 24, 1972, in Rapid City, S.D. They lived in rural Parshall, where Mike worked as a teacher and basketball coach, including acting as the assistant coach for the 1975 state championship team. The couple moved to rural Fessenden in 1975 and he farmed with his father and brother.

Mike and Rose-Anne moved to Bismarck in 1984, where they raised five children. Mike continued to farm and worked as a substitute teacher. He was diagnosed with neuroendocrine pancreatic cancer in 2003. Mike was an enthusiastic participant in several clinical trials and became active in the Pancreatic Cancer Action Network, working to raise awareness and raise funds.

Mike is survived by his wife of 44 years, Rose-Anne; his daughters, Sharon (William Broderick), Naperville, Ill., and Kristen, Big Sky, Mont.; his sons, Kevin (Kelby), Bismarck, Erik, Bismarck, and Marcus (Heather), Hillsboro; 11 grandchildren; his brother, Stephen (Melissa), Center; and nieces, Catherine (Josh) Kolden, Center, and Rebecca, Enumclaw, Wash.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Orval and Solvig; and his brother, James.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to the Pancreatic Cancer Action Network.

Go to www.eastgatefuneral.com to share memories of Mike and sign the online guestbook.

Moment for Reflection

A Deep Expression of Thanksgiving

Suppose you poured your life into a young person who was struggling to make right decisions. You gave time, money, energy, your very self to help them to succeed in life. What do you think would be the best way that person could later thank you for all you had done? Certainly words of appreciation would be appropriate, perhaps even a thoughtful gift. But more than anything, an attentive ear and a changed life would clearly express their appreciation for all you had done.

God has done everything necessary for us to succeed spiritually; indeed, He laid down His very life for us. Yet, so often, even we as believers fail to deeply express our gratitude to Him. We may say thank you every now and again, and even give "gifts" to God from time to time, yet the thanks God most desires is our obedient ear and changed life! A life of true gratitude commences with an attentive ear, continues with an obedient heart, and climaxes with a changed life. Ephesians 1:12 says, "That we should be to the praise of his glory, who first trusted in Christ." During this season of Thanksgiving, would you take time to let the Lord search your heart, and ask yourself, "Is my life a deep, visible expression of thanksgiving to the One Who has given His all for me?"

D-A FBLA participates in Maddock Mobile Pack event

When Kailey Lemer heard about the project her aunt's church was doing in Beulah, she wanted to have her Drake-Anamoose Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) chapter involved in this service project, too. The project: Feed My Starving Children.

Feed My Starving Children is a Christian, non-profit organization with the mission: 'Feeding God's Starving Children Hungry in Body and Spirit.' FMSC packs meals to send to starving children all across the world. They have served over 70 countries and are willing to come to Anamoose so anyone can pack food for these many starving children. FMSC MobilePack will bring the necessary food to the Anamoose-Drake Elementary School and will have coordinators to show how to complete all the tasks required to send this food to the children in need.

The packing date is January 14. The FBLA chapter goal is to pack a minimum of 100,000 meals. Each meal costs 22 cents, meaning they need to raise $22,000 to meet their goal. They will also need a minimum of 500 volunteers to help pack all the meals.

There are two ways to help: volunteering and donating. People can volunteer to work multiple shifts. You may volunteer on an individual basis or bring a group/team of workers. Any donation is tax deductible. The direct link to volunteer and donate is: <http://tinyurl.com/hnfafbw> or go to FMSC website: fmsc.org.

The chapter recently participated in Maddock's mobile packing event. It was an amazing experience according to Drake-Anamoose FBLA members. There were many church organizations represented as well as families. Any school-age person up through elderly can help. There are jobs for people to label packages, scoop rice, load boxes, carry boxes, seal packages and pack pallets.

The Maddock event was fully funded prior to starting. At the end, it was announced their packing shift of 98 people packed enough food to feed 67 children for one entire year.

Julie Rodacker

Rodacker honored

Julie Rodacker, Chaseley, was honored by The North Dakota Board of Social Welfare for 20 years of dedication and service as a Wells County Social Service Board Member at the North Dakota Conference of Social Welfare, held Sept. 28-30, in Dickinson.

Rodacker also serves on the Tri County Social Service Board. She has many years of service in other community and township organizations. Julie said it was in January, 1996, that a Wells County commissioner phoned her husband, Marvin, and inquired if Julie would assume a role on the Social Service Board. She notes Marvin immediately referred the commissioner to Julie to discuss the role.

"I never thought I'd serve this long. I just thought that being involved would be a help," she said. Rodacker notes the roles of boards have changed. With privacy compliance, others now assume the role of fraud control and case numbers are the identifiers relayed to the board.

Rodacker attended Jamestown College. She actively ranches with Marvin and family in Chaseley.

Hunting party, 1949

This photo was submitted to The Herald-Press by Vivien Ingebo Moya. The photo was taken approximately 1949 on her uncle's farm six miles west of Harvey. She says that area, with a large lake, is now a wildlife reserve. She lists the hunters' names with the exception of the man on the right and hopes one of our readers may be able to identify him. From left: Andrew Anderson, Ruben Huber, Olaf Ingebo, Norman McKinven, Quinten Anderson, Sig Ingebo, Joseph Ingebo, Jim McKinven, and unidentified.

IN CHRIST WE HAVE REDEMPTION THROUGH HIS BLOOD, THE FORGIVENESS OF SINS

CHAPEL CHATS

What Does It Take??

What does it take to have you believe that you are a condemned sinner and that Christ came to save you from eternal separation??

What does it take to have you believe that the things of this world are as nothing compared to the glory of heaven that is offered to you?

What does it take to have you change your mind from unbelief to believing the truth of the word of God??

A blind man in John 9 had to make that journey from unbelief and condemnation to belief and eternal life. Jesus put clay on his eyes and told him to go and wash in the pool of Siloam. He went, washed and received his sight, but he did see or know the man that told him to do this. When they asked him who it was that opened his eyes he replied, "A man called Jesus." Later when questioned, he said, "This man is a prophet." His answer to others was, "He must be a man from God." Do you see the upward progress of his answers?

The Pharisees cast the former blind man out of their presence, but Jesus had compassion on him and sought and found him. Jesus said to him, "Do you believe in the Son of God?" He answered, "Who is he Lord that I may believe in Him?" Jesus answered, "You have both seen Him and it is He who is talking with you." The blind man declared, "Lord I believe!" And he fell down and worshipped Him.

The Father is seeking you today and has revealed Himself through His Son, Jesus Christ. Open your eyes to see and believe that Christ is the offering for your sin today. Enjoy the blessing of life in heaven.

Turn to God - Believe Him - Receive Christ - Love Him
